ORDER OF EVENTS

There will be an hour of open practice sessions prior to racing the event. We will rotate all classes for a 10 min per class session. Track officials will control track entry, number of machines in the track surface and possibly lap count to ensure safety and track access for all competitors.

There will be a MANDATORY drivers meeting before practice on race event weekends as well as practice days. This will take place at a posted time after sign in.

For most events, we will be using a 2 heat race and 1 Feature format unless otherwise needed during that event day. Competitors will be randomly drawn for the first race lineup. The starting order for your second race will be the invert of your first heat race position. Your results from both heat races will be averaged to determine your starting position in the feature race. The higher you finish in race 1 & 2, then the better your starting position will be in the main event. In the event that 2 racers have identical race results, the racer with the higher result in the second heat race will break the tie. Class order will be posted at track entry. It is the driver's responsibility to be on time for their race.

Starting order for the main event will be posted once all previous races have been completed. Classes may be combined for the main event, but will be scored within their respective classes.

Drivers must compete in a safe manner and vehicles must maintain a safe operable condition. Drivers may be asked to withdraw from an event if an official determines that there is a risk to their safety, another racers safety, or the safety of an inspector or official.

Some events may require a change to order of events, race format or starting format. In these events, the changes will be explained in the drivers meeting.

A minimum of 6 entries/participants are required per class. In the event that there are less than 6, those drivers may be moved to the next appropriate class. Based upon the discretion of Adrenaline Motorplex officials, classes may be combined or further subdivided.
